Just A Thought

Happy Days

We do not always know when we are happy.
It is only when things go wrong that we look upon the quiet days and realise how blessed they were.

But we did not think so at the time.

So, if you are ever tempted to say that life is dull, or to complain
That your days are humdrum and uneventful, be thankful that it is so.

Rejoice in the quiet days, the plain days, the ordinary days.

For when troubles come, as come they must to all,
You will look upon such days and thank God for them.

Be controlled by your fears or control your fears

There is a legend which says that there was a mouse who was very afraid of cats. She wished she could become a cat, her wish came true and she turned into a cat.

Then she saw a dog and became afraid again and wished she were a dog.
Her wish was granted and she turned into a dog. Then she saw a lion and she was terrified by his power and strength and wished she could become a lion so that would not have to be terrified of the lion,

Her wish was granted and she became a lion. Then she saw a man with a gun to shoot her with his gun. You can imagine what happened next. She wished she could become a human and she did.
But when she was sitting in her house, she was a mouse and she was scared of the mouse. The little mouse frightened her.

To break the cycle of fear live in the present,
Deal with your problems and don't wish your life away.
